

MODERN MENTAL SLAVERY IN AMERICA

7 AREAS OF POWER & INFLUENCE “EDUCATION”

Our government leaders and Corporate America has cleverly convinced us, society, that according to science, we only use 15 percent of our mental capacity. If that is true, then, how much mental capacity does the so-called 1% elite members of our society use to control the other 99%? One thing is for sure, education is not a prerequisite to obtaining wealth and power, because, there are a lot of wealthy fools and crash dummies living in our society, who can barely write their own names. Why do people get so excited about a college education? The fact of the matter is, that a college degree is nothing but acknowledgement that you are certified to work in a particular field of work, which 90% of the time means, that you will be working for someone else, making someone else filthy rich, while you will be struggling to live your own life, at least until you find a better job or until you retire from that job. The reality about a college degree is that, even though have spent thousands of dollars to obtain this degree, there is no guarantee that you will have a successful career.

Unfortunately, technology is moving faster than people can graduate from college and even if you graduate in a field of work that is in high demand, there is a real possibility that the field of work that you specialize in may not even exist by the time you graduate.
